

Lib Dems win for pensioners

Lib Dem 2011 pension rise

£4.50 a week

Pensioners across the UK are getting a better deal with the Lib Dems

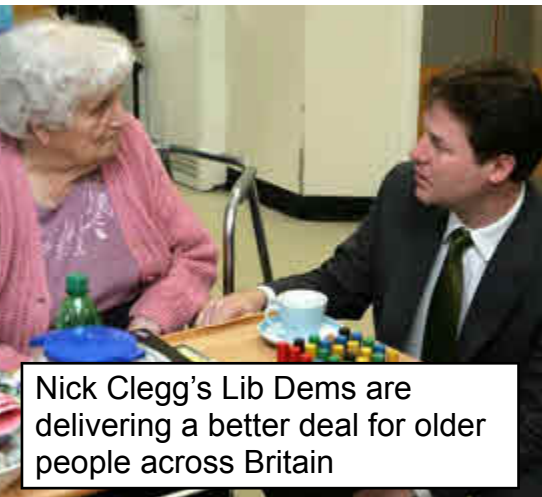

Labour 2010 pension rise

£2.40 a week

Labour failed older people for thirteen long years

Many pensioners will never forgive Labour's miserly 75p a week pension rise of a few years ago. And that was a time when the country's economy was booming!

Under Labour, pensioners saw more and more means testing and forms. The value of their pension fell. They saw the closure of thousands of local post offices.

Nick Clegg's Lib Dems are delivering a better deal for older people across Britain

Now things are getting better with the Lib Dems

One of the first things the Lib Dems did in Government was to restore the 'earnings link' with pensions. Pensioners are now guaranteed to get a decent pension rise each year.

But that's just the beginning. Thousands of pensioners will no longer pay any income tax thanks to our fairer tax plans.

New investment in the post office network will mean the end of Labour's closure programme.
